Introduction

We have involved front line workers, supervisors and health and safety committee to assess and identify areas where there may be a risk. This document will list the protocols implemented in our downtown office to reduce the risks of transmission for all parties including employees and guests.

As information about COVID-19 develops, Hudson Bay Mountain will continue to monitor the progression of the virus and refer to the guidance of public health officials. Hudson Bay Mountain is following guidance from public health officials and WCB including:

1. Keeping the workplace clean and hygienic.
2. Requiring regular and thorough handwashing by employees, contractors and customers. Handwashing kills the virus on the hands and prevents the spread of COVID19
3. Instruction to staff to not touch the face. Touching infected surfaces and then the face or mouth is the primary reason for infection.
4. Requiring all employees to wear gloves during all cleaning duties or laundry (aprons, face coverings, gloves) and replace with fresh a set for each guest /between tasks.
5. Providing education about social distancing and hand-washing to prevent the spread of COVID-19
6. Required social distancing protocols to lessen the chance of community spread.
7. Required respiratory hygiene in the workplace to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Expectations

- All staff will review the safety plan
- It is expected that all staff must comply with the policies and procedures set forth in this document.
- In addition all guests must follow COVID-19 protocols such as social distancing or personal hygiene requirements. If a guest is not following protocols, staff must remind guests of expected protocols. If the guest continues to cause risk by not following social distancing or personal hygiene requirement staff have the right to refuse service to that guest.

Wellness Checks/Sick Staff Protocols

- Employees must self assess every morning to determine if they are showing any symptoms such as cough, fever, shortness of breath, runny nose, or sore throat.
- Employees are asked to sign off that they have completed a Daily Wellness Check
- Employees with symptoms such as cough, fever, shortness of breath, runny nose, or sore throat are not to come to work, are to complete the self-assessment and get tested for COVID-19.
- Employees who have a cough, fever, shortness of breath, runny nose, or sore throat (that is not related to a pre-existing illness or health condition) are mandated to be in isolation for 10 days from the start of symptoms, or until symptoms resolve, whichever takes longer.
- Employer must take said individual off the work schedule for a minimum of 10 consecutive days
- Employer must notify the local Health Authority.
- These requirements must be followed regardless of whether or not the individual has been tested for COVID-19.

If an employee does come to work sick, or becomes sick while at work:

- Upon arrival to the workplace, or becoming sick while at the workplace, the employee must leave the workplace and should begin isolation at home immediately.
- After being directed to leave the business, symptomatic employees should follow hand hygiene and respiratory etiquette and maintain at least 2 meters of distance from other employees, volunteers and patrons.
- Once a sick individual has left the workplace, the employer must ensure that all surfaces and areas with which the affected employee may have come into contact with are cleaned and disinfected.
- The supervisor must record the names of all close contacts of the sick worker who has been in contact with that day and in the 48 hours prior to when the symptoms started in the case. This information may be necessary if the sick worker later tests positive for COVID-19.
- If an employee is confirmed to have COVID-19, and it is determined that other people may have been exposed to that person, the health department may be in contact with the business to provide the necessary public health guidance.
